

The New Indian Express

Monday, August 23rd, 2010

Knowledge Utsav at Jain University

It claims to be the largest conference on research and development in the country, where over 400 research papers will be presented at the Knowledge Utsav, which will be held on August 28 at the Jain University Global Campus, Bangalore. "We have been planning out this conference for the past few years and will not limit it only to paper presentations. The papers that will be presented will be reviewed by a special committee. Around 30-35 per cent of the papers will be published into a journal, both at a national and international level. Follow-ups of all the papers will be done, and funding support will be given at all levels," assures Chenraj Jain, chief mentor EDU.IN, chairman, Jain University. He further added that Knowledge Utsav ushers in the R&D in India, and also creates an awareness among individuals who intend to take R&D as a serious career. Till date,

Knowledge Utsav has received papers from over 120 educational institutions, various research organisations and also from the industry. These are from eight major states namely Andhra Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Orissa, Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, West Bengal and Karnataka. With over 400 research papers across 44 disciplines and more than 100 inspirational talks, this utsav is organised by EDU.IN in association with Tumkur University and Jain Research Foundation. This will bring together the brightest minds in research and development from various disciplines like information technology, engineering management, humanities, nanotechnology, biotechnology, robotics, green technology, energy and social science. For more information, visit www.knowledgeutsav.org ■

—Tasneem Zavery,
Bangalore