

DECCAN HERALD

● 'Samyoga'

The perfect blend

Samyoga, the annual inter-collegiate fest by the School of Commerce & Management, Jain University, was held recently. The fest, which spanned across three days, had various students taking part in it.

Over 50 colleges from various parts of the country took part in the fest, which had more than 25 competitions. From group dance, beat-boxing, business quiz to text messaging, students had plenty to choose from. Offstage events like photography, creative writing and nail art gave the students a chance to explore their artistic side. While treasure hunt had the students following various clues to locate different artifacts, 'Samanvaya — The Commerce Fest' helped them understand the world of business and commerce. The contestants had to apply theoretical concepts in the fields of finance, public relations, human resources and marketing. The business quiz tested the acumen of students in various subjects, and made them sharpen their wits.

TRENDY The fashion show in progress.

Deepak and team from Baldwin Methodist College bagged the first place in the group dance competition with gravity defying dance moves. Melodies sung by students, from classical vocals to exciting western music, brought a lot of cheer from the audience.

Students dressed in resplendent ethnic wear kept the audience spellbound during 'Ethnic Parade'. "It was a great opportunity for me to sport ethnic wear. I have always been comfortable wearing 'churidars' and 'ghagra cholis'. A ramp walk takes a lot of precision and planning, but it is also a lot of fun," said Roshini V, a participant.

The overall trophy was won by Christ University. "At events like these, you get to understand talents from other colleges. It is a humbling experience that taught me many things," said Gunjeen from Christ University.

GRACEFUL One of the dance performances.