

LASYA

A magnificent spectacle of versatility

'Lasya', the cultural fest of SBMJUCM, saw some scintillating dance numbers and innovative costumes

RIGHT ATTITUDE A street dance in progress.

Lasya, an inter-collegiate cultural fest that blended intellect, grace and creativity, was hosted by Sri Bhagwan Mahaveer Jain University - Center for Management (SBMJUCM) recently.

The theme for the event was Intro Spectrum, to represent variety and diversity in thought, opinion and action.

Dance, singing, literary events and art were some of the events that were held. There were various categories in dance and singing like street, regional folk, Bollywood, group, duet, Western and classical solo.

Editorial writing, debate, graffiti and JAM made up for the literary events.

Many other informal events like treasure hunt, guitar wars, photography, Mr and Ms Personality, R.Jing, entertainment quiz were also a part of the fun at Lasya.

Around 20 colleges from Bangalore including St Joseph's, Christ, Mount Carmel, Jyoti Nivas participated actively.

Only one outstation college — Bhawanipur College from Kolkata — participated. The students were seen running from one auditorium to another in an attempt to take part in every event which was being held.

Street dance segment was the major attraction in which the teams displayed unique dancing skills.

All the teams had their own dress code which added to the charm of the street dance. Without any discrimination, students cheered every team irrespective of the college they belonged to. Bhawanipur College won the first place in street and UV dance.

Quiz was held in a very different manner, the participants were put in a room with heavy metallic music being played in the background and they had to solve maths problems to clear the preliminary round.

Guitar wars which was called 'Chordiac arrest' was yet another crowd-puller where two guitarists set the stage on fire with some great music. Sidharth Shankar from CMS won the first place in 'Chordiac arrest'.

'Mr and Ms Personality' was a daring event where the participants were gruelled by the judges and the audience had great fun watching the contestants being grilled.

The participants did everything to convince the judges. Some sang, danced and mimicked to show that they were good at everything.

Prateek Kimcha from St Joseph's College of Commerce won the first place in this event. Bhawanipur College from Kolkata won the overall trophy while Christ College from Bangalore was the runner-up.
